The origin of the Bull Run goes back to medieval times. The bulls for the bullfight used to be driven through the streets at dawn from outside the city walls to the public square that served as a bull ring. Many young men from Pamplona became accustomed to running in front of the bulls, a practice that was repeatedly banned by the authorities but continued to attract large numbers of followers, until finally it ended up turning into a long-standing tradition.

The Bull Run is now the main event of the Sanfermines. It is held from 7th Juli to 14th Juli every morning at 8 a.m.

Royal Mausoleum - XVth century

The Royal Mausoleum with the death statues of Carlos III el Noble and his wife Leonor de Trastamara, Monarchs of Navarre. This sculpture is a unique work of European XVth century sculpture and was carried out between 1413 and 1419 by Jehan Lome de Tournai and his craftsmen. The figures of the mourners are particularly striking and are made from alabaster, as is the rest of the sculpture.

The presbytery and choir are finished by a Gothic grille, cast in 1517 by Guillermo de Evernat, and are among the first in Spain of this style. The design and execution, with a lot of sculptures, are done with exquisite taste. In the presbytery, under a neo-Gothic canopy, is the image of Santa Maria la Real, a fine example of romanesque sculpture. It was carved in wood and then gilded with silver in the XIIIth century. The Child Jesus was reworked in the XVIIth century and the chair in the XVIIIth. The Renaissance choir benches, made between 1531 and 1541, were the work of the best sculptors of the region: Esteban de Obray, Guillen de Holanda, Juan de Beauvais and others.
